

FALL 2009 REGISTRATION SCHEDULE FOR SPRING 2010

May Term Travel Course Registration

Applications for May Term Travel Courses, both International and Domestic, will be accepted beginning on Tuesday, Sept. 29, 2009. Students must submit applications for International Travel Courses to the Office of International Education (OIE), whereas all applications for Domestic Travel Courses need to come directly to the Registrar's Office. Application forms, 2010 international travel course descriptions, and policies related to int'l travel courses can all be found on the study abroad website (<http://www.simpson.edu/studyabroad/mayterm/index.html>). Students who apply to participate in an international travel course by the priority deadline of Sept. 29th will be notified by Oct. 6th as to whether or not they were accepted into it. If they are accepted, the Office of International Education will work with the Registrar's Office to enroll them into their chosen travel course and the related spring semester preparatory course. Students who submit their application materials for an international travel course to the OIE after the priority deadline should learn their admission status within two weeks of submission.

On-Campus May Term 2010 courses will be registered for in the spring at the same time students register for fall courses.

ADVISING PROCEDURE

Seniors may be advised at any time prior to their week of registration, because they will register themselves online during their week of registration. 1. A flyer detailing May 2010 International Study Trips will be published in early September 2009, and a Study Abroad Fair highlighting the May Term International Travel Course offerings will be held on Tuesday, ??????? 2009.

2. Advisors please post appointment sheets on office door several days prior to regular fall registration:

For Seniors: any time from the beginning of classes in the fall to September 21.
by September 21 for juniors
by September 28 for sophomores
by November 6 for first-year students.
Advisors can obtain appointment sheets from building secretaries.

3. Students prepare for advising appointment by simply printing off their degree audit and reviewing what courses they have left to complete, then compile a list of possible classes that you need that semester THEN go to your advisor. A student should take an average 14.5 credit hours per semester.

4. Students meet with advisors to plan initial proposed schedule and MANY alternates. Use the most current information about open classes. Students should take care of any bills at the Business Office, because if you owe a bill, you will not be able to register. A Student cannot be registered until the student's financial obligations are met.

5. Please note, that because we are using completed credits to determine order of registration, some first-year students may actually qualify at this point to be Sophomores. You may also find that some students who think they are Juniors may actually not have enough completed credits yet to qualify.

6. Because faculty advisors will be registering students online, and because we will be registering students first-come-first-served within each class, it is important that the student initiate setting up an appointment with their advisor. See opposite side for your registration week.

7. If a student does not get registered in their allotted time, they may be registered by their advisor during OPEN registration week.

8. Before the start of the spring semester the student needs to go to StormFront and print off a copy of their spring schedule. If the student cannot print a copy of their schedule from StormFront they may contact the Registrar's Office and we will print them a schedule. Please report to the Information Services Office if you have difficulty printing off your schedule from StormFront.

9. If a student wishes to register for an internship, an independent study, or a directed study, we will NOT register them into that class UNTIL we receive the forms in our office.

10. If the student is not full-time after registration, it will be up to the student and his/her advisor to resolve the problem. Keep in mind that if you are not full-time it may affect your family health insurance and your financial aid.

11. Students who have met with their advisors and been registered will also be approved by their advisors to add or drop a Spring 2009 class during Open Registration period. Students who have not yet registered will NOT be able to register themselves during the Open Registration week.
